FOUR STATE FAIR AT OGDEN.

Extensive and elaborate preparations are assured for the Four State Fair at Ogden, Utah. In the past the Ogden fair was known as the big Four County Fair, but so great was the demand from the people in the counties from the states adjoining northern Utah, that it has been decided hereafter to give the Four State Fair which includes all of northern Utah, two counties in Nevada, two in Idaho and two counties in Wyoming.

The people of this county are invited to exhibit at the Fair at Ogden and win any of the gold medals and cash awards. William Glassman, Ogden, Utah, manager of the Four State Fair will be pleased to answer all inquiries. The way to advertise this county is to show its best products in competition with others.

UNDER STATE SUPERVISION AND CONTROL.

In reporting the game between Perry's school nine and Garland's school nine in this city April 17th, we were misinformed and gave Garland's nine credit for defeating the visitors, which was an error. Perry's nine defeated the school nine here and last Saturday, at Perry, our school boys met defeat again.

Mr. John Scott and Miss Selma Linvall were united in marriage at Salt Lake last Sunday. Mr. Scott is an old Short Line conductor and is well known to many readers of the Examiner. He is now running a passenger train between Ogden and Salt Lake. His bride is a sister of Mesdames M. Malone and Henry Douglas and formerly resided in Montpelier.—Montpelier Examiner.

Tuesday evening Dr. W. L. Rich of Garland, had a close call from being hurt at the depot here. The doctor had been down to Ogden and when the train stopped here he was in the coach which goes to Cache Valley talking to some friends. The train started out, but Dr. Rich was hardly through his conversation, so did not jump off but waited till the train was moving at a pretty good speed down the yards.

The train was moving faster than the doctor thought, so when he stepped off he was thrown hard to the earth and received a bad bump. Nothing more serious than a torn trouser leg and a grating on the palms of the hands, was done for which the doctor was mighty thankful. So were others who saw the occurrence.—Box Elder News.

Punctuation Was Preserved.

When John Kendrick Bangs' fantasy of "Tomorrowland" was in rehearsal the author was very much disturbed by the arbitrary alterations in his book by an omnipotent manager, who succeeded in the end in transforming a musical satire into a tuneless show having neither head nor tail. Mr. Bangs expressed himself to some friends forcibly one night on the subject of the managerial omniscience.

"If you feel that way," said one of his friends, "why do you attend rehearsals?"

LISTEN TO ME

I've just found a hosiery which you'll be glad to know about. It's the make, and sold by THE FOULGER COMPANY. Never in my life have I seen such hose wear. They tell me it's because they'll all dyed by the process—that does not rot or weaken the hose. Aside from the good service they give, I find that washing has not the slightest effect on them—in fact soap only makes them blacker. I buy them for all the family and find that my saving is great for I don't have to buy nearly so often.

It will pay you to know them.
